Information streaming from all parts of the globe energizes social, scientific and economic progress. Access to this fast-accumulating, fast-changing wealth of data is essential for students in every field – including those pursuing undergraduate and graduate degrees at NJIT’s School of Management (SOM).

The Bloomberg terminal pictured is a key resource that places SOM among the nation’s leaders in business education. No other source is as inclusive or as detailed when it comes to keeping abreast of stocks, bonds, commodities, derivatives, foreign exchange and other critical financial indicators. For SOM students, becoming skilled with this leading-edge technology provides an invaluable advantage for educational and professional success.
