OH, THE PLACES THEY'LL GO!

It was a day of great excitement and celebration. On May 20, 2013, 2,643 men and women joined the ranks of NJIT alumni. It was also a day of great promise, as NJIT President Joel S. Bloom emphasized in speaking to the graduating class and some 5,000 family members and friends. As President Bloom said, "Whatever path you follow, I know that each of you will aspire to build a better world. You will do so professionally through the application of skills and knowledge you have gained in the classrooms and laboratories of a great university."

To borrow some words from Dr. Seuss, the members of the Class of 2013 will join the generations of other NJIT alumni in going to many different places in life, traveling diverse paths toward distinction in a growing range of careers. There's also no doubt that "At the Edge" in future issues of NJIT Magazine will highlight their individual accomplishments as graduates of a great university.
